Lumora Limited Warranty - Terms and Conditions

Effective for products purchased on or after January 1, 2026.

1. Warranty period

The warranty period depends on the product and on the country where it was purchased. The applicable period for each product and region is listed in the Lumora Warranty Matrix. The warranty starts on the date of original purchase and is not extended by a repair or replacement; a replacement product or part carries the remaining warranty of the original product.

2. What is covered

Defects in materials and workmanship under normal use. Batteries are covered if their capacity drops below 70% of the original rated capacity within the warranty period.

3. Water damage

Water damage is covered only for products with an IP rating and only within the limits of that rating. For Aria X2 (IP67), damage from immersion in fresh water up to 1 meter for up to 30 minutes is covered, provided the USB-C port cover was fully closed. Damage from salt water, chlorinated pool water, hot water or steam, or from immersion with the port cover open, is not covered. For Pulse (IPX4), Pulse Pro (IP54) and Aria Mini (IPX5), damage from sweat, rain and splashes is covered; damage from immersion is not covered. Halo ANC and Halo Lite have no IP rating and water damage is never covered.

4. What is not covered

Physical damage (drops, crushing, pets), loss or theft, normal wear of ear tips and ear cushions, cosmetic damage, damage from unauthorized repairs, and products whose serial number has been removed.

5. How to make a claim

Contact Lumora support with the product serial number. For products not bought directly from Lumora, include a proof of purchase showing the purchase date. Support will first help with troubleshooting and then, if needed, arrange a replacement. Lumora does not repair units; defective units are replaced with new or equivalent-to-new products.

6. Consumer rights

This warranty is in addition to, and does not limit, your statutory rights under the consumer law of your country.
